

HOW TO › LINUX

Using the Linux Top Command

Linux Top Command.

by Gary Newell

Updated September 30, 2016

Introduction

The Linux top command is used to show all the running processes within your Linux environment. This guide shows you how to use the top command by explaining the different switches available and the information that is displayed:

How To Run The Top Command

In its basic form all you need to do to show the current processes is type the following in a Linux terminal:

```
top
```

What Information Is Shown:

The following information is displayed when you run the Linux top command: